

DIGITAL SIGNATURES

There are many programs available for digital signatures. Two of the most popular are DocuSign, <https://www.docusign.com/>, and RightSignature, <http://www.rightsignature.com/>.

DocuSign enables you to sign with your mouse, upload a scanned image of your signature, or type in your name, and select from a variety of signature styles to sign a document. With the DocuSign Ink mobile app, you are able to sign with your finger. Whichever option you choose, your signature is a valid electronic signature. This signature will be associated with a unique identifier so that every document you sign will be recorded as signed by you and you alone.

With RightSignature, sending a document is as simple as uploading a PDF or Word file, entering signers' names and email addresses, and clicking send. You can add text fields for signers to complete and set up reusable templates for your frequently sent documents. RightSignature contacts signers via email and exclusive navigation tools guide them through filling out and signing your documents with ease. Executed documents are emailed to all parties, and the completed PDF files are stored in your secure RightSignature archive for future reference.

For a comparison of digital signature software, visit <https://www.lawtechnologytoday.org/2016/04/5-tools-make-electronic-document-signing-easier/>.

IMPORTANT NOTICES

This material is provided for informational purposes only and does not establish, report, or create the standard of care for attorneys in Oregon, nor does it represent a complete analysis of the topics presented. Readers should conduct their own appropriate legal research. The information presented does not represent legal advice. This information may not be republished, sold, or used in any other form without the written consent of the Oregon State Bar Professional Liability Fund, except that permission is granted for Oregon lawyers to use and modify these materials for use in their own practices. © 2019 OSB Professional Liability Fund.